In an exploration of the transient nature of beauty, the experimental sound duo ..o (@anemptythoughtbubble) collaborates with visual artist Connor Oman (@omansounds) to present a captivating audiovisual performance that intertwines the concepts of creation and destruction. Through the delicate balance of soft guitar melodies and loud, distorted sonic artifacts, ..o probes the essence of decay and disintegration. Connor Oman complements this auditory experience with experimental and microscopic visuals that illustrate the disintegration and reformation of objects, seamlessly integrating with the audio to form a real-time interactive spectacle.

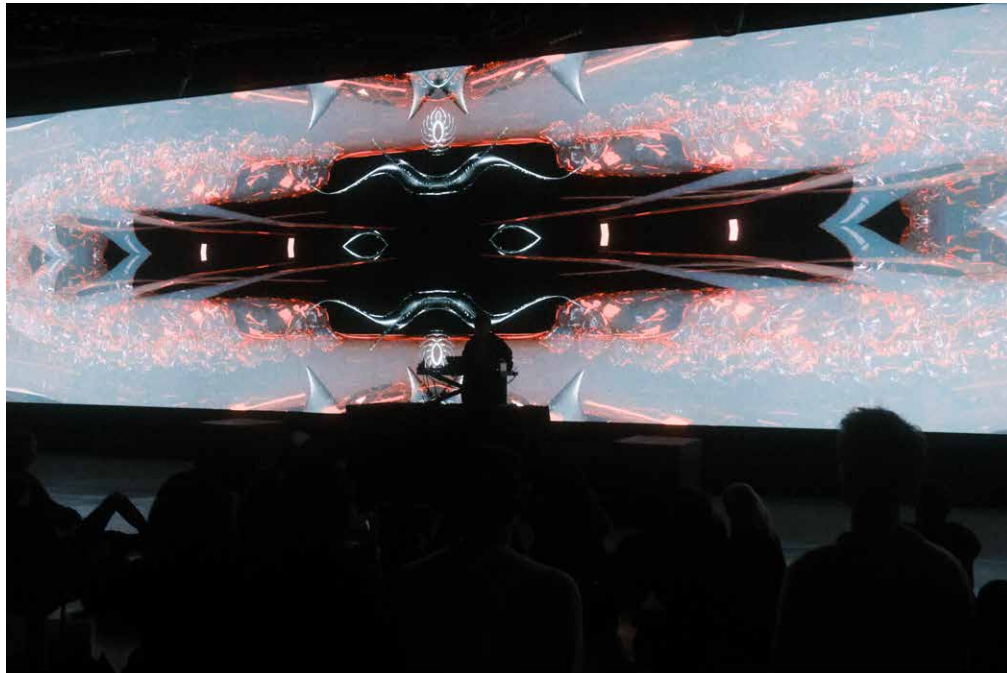

This hypnotic fusion of sound and light invites the audience into a meditative state, challenging perceptions of harmony and dissonance, as organic and digital elements—such as disintegrating trees and microorganisms—visually echo the performance's thematic exploration. The experience poses a profound question: what remains when beauty is shattered?

VIRUS911

In VIRUS911, audio craftsman Gabriel joins visual artist Oman Sounds (Connor Oman) to present a non-human audio/visual experience. A performance raging with sonic assaults and flashes that will haunt you.

VIRUS911 is a dense, brutal assault of sound and vision. The performance combines abstract, future organism designs with pulsating auditory distortions that claw at the senses. VIRUS911 is designed for those who crave the raw, the loud, and the unapologetically harsh. A night of violence in sound and corrupted pixels.

..o and Connor Oman bring in a new piece titled "HyperFuture."

HyperFuture is the paradoxical pursuit of a future so advanced it reverts to primal. It doesn't necessarily mean improvement but it could also be going back to our animalistic roots.

In an age dominated by the momentary, where data is constantly created, consumed, and discarded; ..o and Connor take you through this invert journey of stepping into an existence where you first experience the Discard then the Consuming and finally, the Creation.

This inversion of the traditional linear progression of time, where the future precedes the present, is the core characteristic of the piece.
